Oh, fame
They've taken everything and twisted it
    Oh, fame they say
    You never could have resisted it
        What's in a name
        And everybody's jaded by fame
            Oh, fame again
    The press has gone and made another mess of it
        Oh, just because they got
            So much invested in it
    But they say you're to blame it's your own fault
        'Cos you got mixed up in fame
    Oh, no, don't believe all that old Andy Warhol guff
        It takes a lot more than 10 or 15 minutes
        That's just not enough to qualify you for
    Fame, you went beyond the boundaries of sanity
        And every day you defy, all the laws of gravity
    You ain't got no shame 'cos you're just addicted to fame
    Oh, no, don't you buy none of that old Andy Warhol stuff
        It takes a lot more than 10 or 15 minutes
        That's just not enough to qualify you for
    Fame, they're already setting up your own Watergate
        Oh fame, that stalker out there is just filled with hate
    You'll never be the same 'cos everyone's corrupted by fame
        Oh, fame
    They took away all my humanity
        Oh, fame got to fight
    Every second of the day for my dignity
        It's a spectator's game
    And there ain't nothing fair about fame
        Oh, fame
        Oh, fame
    Oh, fame say it again, fame
        They say you're to blame
    'Cos you got mixed up in fame
