Wildewoman

Lucius

Her eyes are light and clear and fearless like Chicago winds in the wintertime Her hair is never quite in place and the knees in her jeans have seen better days and she's no beauty queen but you love her anyways she's a wildewomanOh she's gonna find another way back home
it's written in her blood oh it's written in her bones
She's ripping out the pages oh she's ripping out the pages in your book She's gonna find another way back home
it's written in her blood oh it's written in her bones
She'll only be bound by the things she choosesHer smile is sneaky like a fiery fox It's that look that tells you she's up to no good at all and she'll say whatever's on her mind They're unspeakable things and she'll speak them in vain and you can't help but wish you had bolder things to say She's a wildewoman
