

Listen To the Rain

Kestin Howard

It's three am and I can't sleep,
Thoughts of you are in my head,
I toss and turn just trying to forget,
The angry words that we said.

Then I hear the rain fall down,
Its talking to me as it falls to the ground,
I close my eyes as I hear,
This song playin' in my ear.

I hear it sayin'

Don't be afraid,
Cause I am here,
To calm your troubled heart.
My thunder is a call to people far and near,
My lightning shines your way through the dark,
And I know your pain,
Let's just listen to the rain.

About that time my telephone rings,
It's you at the end of the line,
You say I'm sorry for all the things rhag I said,
I still wish that you were mine.

So don't hang up the phone,
I'm begging of you don't leave me alone,
A storm is blowin' in,
And I really could use a friend.

And so I tell her,

Don't be afraid,
Cause I am here,
To calm your troubled heart.
That wind is blowin' in to dry up all your tears,
Let's just take it back to the start
'Cause I know your pain,
Let's just listen to the rain.

And I know your pain,
Let's just listen to the rain.

Let's just listen to the rain.
