

Landmines and Landslides

Less Than Jake

Dear, you won't answer me, did you honestly think I'd ever leave?

If you'd somehow just believe me

You've gotta know right now that these words still sting

I've lost everything, I've ever touched The results were eating me up

For once I've had enough Landmines, landslides no matter how I try

Landmines, landslides every single time I fell asleep while watching TV

While the living dead they walk my streets this evening

This sitting target's been stuck on the couch again

Pretending I'm stable as the panic sets in The results were eating me up

For once I've had enough Landmines, landslides, no matter how I try

You're destined for disaster, you're failure by design Landmines, landslides, every single time

I'm destined for disaster, I'm trapped on every side You know how hard I try sometimes, you can see it in my eyes

It's always eating me alive the day to day of getting by

Self-control from all the helplessness I've known

I'm a wreck, whoa, lacking confidence there's no arguments you know Landmines, landslides, no matter how I try

I'm destined for disaster, I'm trapped on every side Whoa, whoa

Whoa, whoa Landmines, landslides every single time

I'm destined for disaster, I'm trapped on every side
