Everywhere I Go

Ilse DeLange

Tonight, I called out your name
The thought of you was carried on the wind
And it echoed through the canyon like a trainWinding on home to me again
I can almost touch your face
It's almost like you never went awayEverywhere I go
I can feel you all around me
In the sunrise, in the moonlight
I breathe you in like the air
You're everywhereI walked through the forest green
Far from all the chaos and the noise
And the river, she sang to meI could swear, it sounded like your voice
There to comfort me
Soothing as a gentle breezeEverywhere I go
I can feel you all around me
In the sunrise, in the moonlight
I breathe you in like the air
You're everywhereEverywhere I go
I can feel you all around me
In the sunrise, in the moonlight
I breathe you in like the air
Oh, I breathe you in like the air
You're everywhere
