Betelmire

I see you at night, and I stare at you
You don't care for meWithout the light, I still glare at you, look away from me.So don't lie,
it's taken you all night,
of feeling the same
with meSo don't die,
it's taken you all night,
of feeling the same.You are too old to fare on your own You are too old to fare on your ownAnd they say, it can't be won when it's your eyes
touching my eyes
to the past we know
They say it can't be done, and they say it's all just fun
it's your eyes touching my eyesYou like what you find, staring back at you
You don't care for meSo don't lie,
it's taken you all night,
with meAnd you know that I won't, know that I won't You are too old to fare on your ownAnd they say, it can't be won
when it's your eyes
touching my eyes
to the past we know
touching my eyesWon't you comfort me?
Comfort me?And they say, it can't be won
when it's your eyes
touching my eyes
to the past we know
touching my eyesThis isn't you that I came here for,

This isn't you that I waited for(repeat)
