

Glass

Gavin DeGraw

Fool you made the girl fall in love
You said those beautiful things
She thought you spoke things you mean Caress her skin like it's glass
She hears your voice making plans
And sees your face in her head
You don't wanna see somebody beg
As you feel her heart surrender you begin to fall
How do you say that something's through When it never even started, at least not for you you breathe her air and you leave you keep your mind on yourself and lie the glass on the shelf after the heavenly speech your body throws holy heat the angels sing when our eyes meet it wasn't a lie but it wasn't true i just wanted to make you feel good just wanted you near I wasn't prepared I wasn't thinking of you thought you could actually love me it never should have started She's dreaming back on the past Every opinion agreed Doesn't know what to believe It must have been for a cause
Our lives have so many doors
Don't think about him anymore
But it was the kiss, it took me away
It's like he knew that I am fragile
He handled me like glass And it hurts but it's what I deserve cause I should have been more careful with the others that I've handled And knowing this I know that he'll get his But I don't want the man to suffer
Not the way I am
'Cause deep down I know that he's glass too
And it really doesn't matter until it's happenin' to you Everybody breaks, everybody breaks sometimes, sometimes
