Sameside

The Trophy Fire

we met in the darkest bar we could find our eyes were twice as heavy as they were in 99 through suburban sprawls, academias halls thered been some heavy weather, so close together and loves long left some old architects sameside keep a hope alive we stayed for hours under the dying neon signs a calm that soothes us but is fleeting we drink away but when we wake were right back to where we started the nights departed and we live in shells bound to ourselves come crash here we can divide the bigger things were trying to forget youve got my floor i dont care how long, its yours you can stay
