

Strong Enough

Evan Olson

All of my life, I've been waiting in vain,
To get to the point, the point of anything,
Even without, all these things I can't feel,
I'm running away, from what I know is real.

So do what you do, if you never had the time,
I've been hanging around, trying to be myself tonight,
And all of these things, that we take for granted,
We will rise and will show we can pay the rent.

Chorus

To me,

Am I strong enough, to put up a fight,
Am I strong enough to make it through the night,
Am I brave enough, to be who you see,
Am I rich enough to feed my family.

These warnings inside, have been wanting to show,
But I can't be sure, of what I just don't know,
Though I believe, I can handle the stress,
I still don't know how, I got into this mess.

So don't be afraid, when the walls come tumbling down,
I keep standing tall and keep your feet flat on the ground,
When news travel fast, but you're the last to take it in,
We'll run to the top and we'll ride it again.

Chorus

To me,

Am I strong enough, to put up a fight,
Am I strong enough to make it through the night,
Am I brave enough, to be who you see,
Am I rich enough to feed my family.

(Instrumental)

So do what you do, if you never have the time,
I've been hanging around trying to find myself tonight,
And all of these words, that we take for granted,

We will rise and will show we can pay the rent.

Chorus

To me,

Am I strong enough, to put up a fight,
Am I strong enough to make it through the night,
Am I brave enough, to be who you see,
Am I rich enough to feed my family.

Am I strong enough,
Am I strong enough,
Am I brave enough,
Am I rich enough.
