

Never There

Hoobastank

I'm filling up inside
Like I need to open wide and pour my heart out to you
But I'll just get denied
And all I wanted was someone to hear what I'm going through Every time that I need you around
You're never there
You're never there Because in my life is where I need you now
But you're never there
You're never there You were supposed to see
All the signs I left to read in front of your face
You were supposed to be
The closest thing to being me, but you're the furthest away
That's because Every time that I need you around
You're never there
You're never there Because in my life is where I need you now
But you're never there
You're never there
You're never there
You're never there And I doubt that I will ever find out
If there's a way to get out of feeling all alone
'Cause lately I've been thinking maybe
That no one's going to save me, I'll do it on my own
On my own, on my own Every time that I need you around
You're never there
You're never there Because in my life is where I need you now
But you're never there
You're never there
You're never there You're never there
You're never there
You're never there
