Going Somewhere

My Superhero

consider this another day i wish i had something to say about you losing your way another time, another place i'll turn around and see your face looking right up at me i've gotta go to where i don't know i'll find that road i know it must go somewhere one more thought, one more thing love will never be the same should've kept what you had where am i, where are you alot of things that we could do so where are ya going now what i'm looking for i just don't know anymore i'll take this road i know it must go somewhere going somewhere, i'd say 'cause now is not the time tomorrow's not the place going somewhere i'd say but now is the time or place forget about the things we said forget about the lives we led forget the last time we spoke forget about the promises we broke take a look of what you have now you might just see why and how all i've found one more thing i could say would fly right through your head today maybe you could write it down another year is passing by maybe you'll get the nerve to try try to make it right

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/