Perfectionist

Landon Pigg

You're wonderful
You're good at everything you do
Everyone is equal
But not as equal as youYou're the best
You're the best
And every town's got one
Like youJust take trip far away
Where no one really cares about those things
And expose yourself to the pleasures and pain of this life
You can let down your guard tonightParanoid perfectionistic people
They can only put their very, very best foot forward
And as a result they're rather easy to detect
They'll be the only ones hopping down the streets of New YorkAnd every town's got one
Like youJust take trip far away
Where no one really cares about those things
And expose yourself to the pleasures and painIf you're walking on the line
You'll never know what's on either side
You might be wrong or might be right
You can't pass this love, you gotta give it a tryJust take trip far away
Where no one really cares about those things
And expose yourself to the pleasures and pain of this life
And you can let down your guardJust take trip far away
Where no one really cares about those things
And expose yourself to the pleasures and painIf you're walking on the line
You'll never know what's on either side
Might be wrong or might be right
You can't pass this love, you gotta give it a try
