Amanda's Song

Jason Koiter

Lying here with all my thoughts inside this empty bed
Wishing for an empty head to think things through Everything is simple like the hand that needs to heal
To feel the walls of all the tunnels that lead to you
And I know that it gets hard when you can't pray away this ache
But I believe with all my heart the sun will rise where you lie in wait

And I miss you, wanna kiss you, but I can't find you in my dreams
Where I would take you, when they break you, and life shakes you to your knees
The stars may not align, but I still shine for you
For You

Another day Another empty pill to take the pain
Another enemy created to take the blame
I've seen many tears that fell because of what I've done
And now I wish we could restart what we've become
And even though you'll have to fight for every hour Everyday
I swear to you and me will never fear the end of what we've made

I miss you, really miss you, but I can't find you in my dreams
Where I would take you, when they break you, and life shakes you to your knees
The stars may not align, but I still shine for you
The stars may not align, but I still shine
For You

Lyrics Submitted by Brayden

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/