Writings On The Wall

Lovex

A glimpse of light breaks through
The ruins of our lives
My dusty eyelid rise to let hope
Blind my sightBetween the closing walls
A breeze revives my mind
I run into the darkness
Preying we could escapeIs this moment the last chance to change the course
For I know she can't take, she can't take this for longIs this the chance that I've been looking for
That I've been looking
For to change the writings on the wall
The writings on theI collect the puzzles wishing
The tears could fill a well
Deep enough to sink our problems
Once and for allIs this moment the last chance to change the course
For I know she can't take, she can't take this for longIs this the chance that I've been looking for
That I've been looking
For to change the writings on the wall
The writings on the
The wall
Is this the chance that I've been looking forTime after time, wrong after right, but never again
Will I let things roll without taking control of myselfIs this the chance that I've been looking for
That I've been looking
For to change the writings on the wall
The writings on the
The wall
Is this the chance that I've been looking for

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/