

Could You

TV on the Radio

Shut down, give up the fight (Slamming the door, been here before, where do we go?)
Stay drunk all night (That was a good one, he keeps a seat open at the bar)
Might not work out alright (Boy letting go, leave it alone, leave it alone) Look to love someone
Look to love somebody, name you never heard of
Just a high night on the bridge, the one you're burning A love walked out (Where did it go, can't find my phone, all the way down)
Check the lost and found (You're getting older, keep getting slow, all the way down)
Feeling underground (Too many texts now, just be the one, yeah) Could you love somebody?
Could you hold another's care above your bright lights?
Could you open up your heart or you too uptight?
Could you work to build something besides a wall?
Could you love somebody, anyone at all? Now it won't be undone (Sleeping that off, leaving the pole, leaving the pole)
And it won't be too long ([?] at dawn, writing a song, writing a song)
You can feel it, come on (Breaking the bones, suck marrow down, suck marrow down)
It's a heartbeat, bump-bump (Biting the bullet, breaking me down, breaking me down) Alright, yeah it's alright, for the ways, the world, all ending
But it's been done, yeah it's alright
But let's [?] looking forward Could you love somebody?
Could you strip the ego bare, let love take flight?
Could you open up your heart? Could you love somebody?
Could you hold another's care above your bright lights?
Could you open up your heart or you too uptight?
Could you work to build something besides a wall?
Could you love somebody, anyone at all?
