

Lullaby (Burnout Revenge OST)

Thrice

What are we all living for
If nothing's worth dying for tonight?
Your dreams are not enough
What I need is love
That's worth laying down my life
Sing along just like they taught us
It's soothing your mind this lullaby
No heaven above us
Just mile after mile of empty sky
No right or wrong, can you imagine?
A world where there's no more need to cry
But no joy or passion
It seems like the price is much too high
But I am holding out for something real
And though you offer peace
What I really need comes to so much more
Your dreams are not enough
What I need is love that's worth dying for
You say that you're a dreamer
But I'm a dreamer too
I won't sing your lullaby
However well intentioned
It's neither good nor true
The pallid dream is just a lie
What are we all living for
If nothing's worth dying for tonight?

Songwriters

Teppei Teranishi; James Riley Breckenridge; Dustin Michael Kensrue; Edward Carrington

Breckenridge Published by

SCEPTOR OF MALICE; UNIVERSAL MUSIC-MGB SONGS Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>