

Blue Roses

Pam Tillis

Blue roses will blossom in the snow
Before I ever let you go
Blue roses will grow up to the sky
Before I ever make you cry, blue roses You need more reassurance
Than a frightened orphan child
That I'm always gonna want you
That I'll always be beguiled So I search for words to tell you
That my love for you is blind
But this fragment of a children's song
Is all that I can find Blue roses will blossom in the snow
Before I ever let you go
Blue roses will grow up to the sky
Before I ever make you cry, blue roses This nursery rhyme is corny
It is stranded out of time
But it's simple and it's honest
And since when was that a crime? And perhaps whoever wrote it
Loved someone like I love you
For in matters of the heart I've found
There's little that is new Blue roses will blossom in the snow
Before I ever let you go
Blue roses will grow up to the sky
Before I ever make you cry Blue roses will blossom in the snow
Before I ever let you go
Blue roses will grow up to the sky
Before I ever make you cry
Before I ever make you cry, blue roses
