Close My Eyes

Break the Silence

These days I'm coming clean, finding light through all the darkness.
You're here supporting me, always faithful, always shining.
Our time, our energy is locked inside our hearts forever.
What we need to be free is ourselves, our unity.
When I close my eyes, I can feel that you're still here with me.
As my heart beats on, the fire inside still burns completely.
When it all unfolds, when it all goes down,
it reassures me loud and clear that you are around.
Falling down, rising up so many of these times,
to provide the strength through everything, the truth: it never dies.
And, even if it's not forever, you've strengthened my life.
For who you are and what you mean, I know I can confide.
Your honesty keeps healing me from all of those who lied.
When I close my eyes, I can feel that you're still here with me.
As my heart beats on, the fire inside still burns completely.
When it all unfolds, when it all goes down,
it reassures me loud and clear that you are around.
Falling down, rising up so many of these times, gives me strength.
Position for reaction, you're here by my side,
and you're living on wherever everyone...where everyone else died.
There's three words I will say for those times you gave me my life.
When I close my eyes, I can feel that you're still here with me.
As my heart beats on.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/