Selfmachine

I Blame Coco

I saw the mirror starin' back at me
And it told me I'm a self machine
I saw the mirror starin' back at me
And it told me I'm a self machineIt said I gave you these scars
And I gave you these wounds
I told you the false
And I showed you the truthI saw the mirror staring back at me
And it told me I'm a self machineLonely robot in a wasteland
Rusting in a lonely harbor
Lonely robot in a wasteland
Rusting in the harbor's waterI'm not a human if you say I'm not
I'm not a human if my engines lock
And this motor that you call my heart
Is another machine that will stopAnd the impression of myself machine
The word was spoken and it was foreseen
Then I am powered by this gasoline
My eyes lit up as if by keroseneSee constellations and stars
And the powers that be
Engaged in a dance
This robotic routineNow are we two worlds apart or in between
A pixel lost on the computer screenLonely robot in a wasteland
Rusting in a lonely harbor
Lonely robot in a wasteland
Rusting in the harbor's waterI'm not a human if you say I'm not
I'm not a human if my engines lock
And this motor that you call my heart
Is another machine that won't stopWait harbor, wait
Water still, water still
And shake, the ground will shake
I'll stand still, I'll stand stillLonely robot in a wasteland
Rusting in a lonely harbor
Lonely robot in a wasteland
Rusting in the harbor's waterI'm not a human if you say I'm not
I'm not a human if my engines lock
And this motor that you call my heart
Is another machine that won't stop
Won't stopI'm not a human if you say I'm not
I'm not a human if my engines lock
And this motor that you call my heart

Is another machine that won't stop
