Night Before the Morning After

Hudson Taylor

When I broke into your heart oh, I threw away the key so tell me what you see oh, a lover or a thiefAnother night of destruction what have I done to hurt you my body is not functioning the way it's meant to turn the light on, tell the truth be a man before it gets back to you another morning, another day last night fades awayWhen she's staring at me my heart forgets to keep the beat the night before the morning afterWhen I broke into your heart
oh, I threw away the key
so tell me what you see
oh, a lover or a thiefAnother sight of disillusion what did you see that hurts you tell the tale now, turn the page be a man before it gets too late another morning, what can I say?
Last night fades awayThe night before the morning afterWhen I broke into your heart
oh, I threw away the key
so tell me what you see
oh, a lover or a thiefAnd when I think about it now oh, I really let you down
so tell me what you see
oh, a lover or a thiefYou can read it in tomorrow's papers but it's written here all over my face it hasn't happened yet there's a feeling I regret I'm guilty of a robbery about to take placeohhh, ohh-ohh, oo-woah ohh, ohh ohWhen I broke into your heart
oh, I threw away the key
so tell me what you see
oh, a lover or a thiefAnd when I think about it now
oh, I really let you down
so tell me what you see
oh, a lover or a thiefSo tell me what you see
oh, a lover or a thiefSo tell me what you see

oh, a lover or a thief

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/