No One Takes the Train Anymore

Holly Dunn

If you take the train when you leave me
I'll stand on the platform and make sure you see me
By the time you get upstate and roll on down the track
You just might change your mind, get off and come on backBut no one takes the train anymore
No one takes the train anymore
When you really wanna go, the railway is too slow
So no one takes the train anymoreIf you walk away when you leave me
I'll tell you that you're mine and make you believe me
By the time you reach the gate and turn onto the road
I know you'd change your mind and decide you shouldn't goBut no one walks away anymore
No one walks away anymore
When the moment has arrived it's easier to drive
So no one walks away anymoreIf you sail to sea when you leave me
I'll call out your name and tell you you need me
By the time you set the sails and finally put to sea
You'll have to change your mind about wanting to be freeBut no one sails to sea anymore
No one sails to sea anymore
When you wanna say goodbye it's faster now to fly
So no one sails to sea anymoreOhh, no one walks away anymore
There won't be the time
For me to change your mind
'Cause no one takes the train anymore
No one takes the train anymore
