

Dollhouse

Voodoo Monkey Child

I knew a little girl, so many years ago
We were the best of friends, but how were we to know
It was my thirteenth birthday, we laughed and danced about
They sang "Happy Birthday". I blew the candles out

Thirteen candles cut the night
In the Dollhouse

All the gifts were open except a single box
I wondered what could be inside
It was a lovely dollhouse like I had always dreamed
To live in such a palace free

Thirteen candles cut the night
In the Dollhouse

The birthday party lingered
We played into the night
My little girlfriend and I
But it was getting late now, we had to go to bed
We pulled the sheets over our heads
And when we awoke, we couldn't believe our eyes
It was the greatest of surprises

Thirteen candles cut the night
In the Dollhouse

Ring around the rosie, pocket full of posies
Ashes, ashes, we all fall down
