I pass the whelming flood that pours into this restless town
Through the blinding fog that fills the air from sky to ground
Beneath the midnight sky that casts a shadow on this hill
Hope â€“ the only spark â€“ that burns from deep within me still

The Winter has come
The Winter has come
The darkness is forcing its way through
But Iâ€™m not overrun
Iâ€™m not overrun
Cause Iâ€™m running into you

As I make my way through this God-forsaking land
Watching devils laugh and drunkards clap their hands
A chilling wind pulls me in and asks me for a dance
But I run on past
Up the road as crooked as the devilâ€™s smile
Past the open fields where dogs and wolves run wild
And I tell myself in just another mile
Iâ€™ll be safe at last

I pass the gentle stream that whispers underneath my feet
Through the silver dew that glimmers on both grass and leaves
Beneath a midnight sky that sets the world alight with stars
Peace â€“ the brightest one â€“ sends its warmth into my heart

The Autumn has come
The Autumn has come
The sunlight is forcing its way through
And I am undone
I am undone
Cause youâ€™re coming into view.

As I make my way through this God-beloved land
Watching angels laugh and children clap their hands
A friendly breeze pulls me in and asks me for a dance
We dance our last
Up a road as blessed as the Devilâ€™s frown
Past the open fields where lions and lambs lie down
And as I tell myself that this will be my final round

I wonder how itâ€™s gone so fast
I shed a tear and move on past

The seasons have come
The seasons have gone
Theyâ€™ve given this road a different hue
The Winter and Fall
Iâ€™ve walked through them all
But this road keeps leading me to You
