

Bends Like a Willow

Jethro Tull

She's catching the wind, the gentlest of breezes
It's a sensitive passage she's sailing
Through stormy straits
Navigates my unfathomable failings
She rises before me, reading me clearly
Empty nest left pressed in the pillow
She can shift, she can sway and bend like a willow
She bends like a willow
I'm swept in the riptide, caught in a fish trap
Gift-wrapped in my soft self center
Summer sun leaves me as one who can only taste winter
She's a good, a good God send
She can bend like a willow
She bends like a willow
Oh, she bends like a willow
With a fully armed angel to cover me quickly
I'm cool under enemy fire
If I fall, she can crawl right under the wire
When I'm caustic and cold, she might dare to be bold
Ease me round to her warm way of thinking
Fill me up from the cup of love that she's drinking
And I find given time, I can bend like a willow
She bends like a willow
Bends like a willow
Like a willow, willow
