Two Tone

Nonpoint

Two tone straight gay misfits runaway different from the rest of you you scratching through the surface all my physical fears staring I said don't look at me I got a different idea staring doesn't help doesn't help you I've got a new I.
Two tone straight gay misfits runaway different from the rest of you and then I see you coming from behind me can you hear me sayin I said catchy kinda wreck it stop all this racket that you asked when you passed before me it was the comment and all your rejects wrapped around your neck can you hear the steps behind you I got the feelin what was the question or have any idea who is coming up from behind can you hear the steps lie strange surprise when I open your mouth and got ya hypnotized that you made that gave the impression that you could judge me people won't you realize and give another try to someone you don't know behind you I'm looking through you when I make eye contact with you

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/