

Juliet

Louden Swain

The clock is ticking like the pigeons peck the stairs at the park
Your hands are shaking but you're breaking from the crack in your heart oooh

You wring your hands and you straighten your gown
You pray to God that your parents just sleep through the sound
There's a nightlight screaming at you
The window's open and the wind is rushing through
You set your eyes on the dark of the night
There's a comet and its flame is burning bright
It's getting late and he's running out of time
A noise awakens and the dog next door lets it be own
Cacophony of barking takes a somewhat ominous tone
You brace your fingers and you summon your might Get on the floor and do your best to stay out of sight
Stay out of sight
There's a nightlight screaming at you
The window's open and the wind is rushing through
You set your eyes on the dark of the night
There's a comet and its flame is burning bright
It's getting late and he's running out of time
Sound of pebbles break the threshold and make piles in your room
Another level hits the treble of your sonic boom
You steel your courage and you steel your pride
You steal innocence when you accepted the ride
Accepted the ride
There's a nightlight screaming at you
The window's open and the wind is rushing through
You got a love and it's way overdue
You got a poison burning deep inside of you
There's a lick and it's sticking like glue
Apothecary only you unlock the clue
You set your eyes on the dark of the night
There's a comet and its flame is burning bright
It's getting late and he's running out of time
oooooooooh yahoooooooooh yahoooooooooh yahoooooooooh yeah
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>