Clear

Stir

Talk to me so slow that I can hear you
'Cause what you say makes so much sense to me
And here I'll stand with nothing on my mind
Forgetting everything I'm supposed to sayAs I start learning more you'll whisper to me
And tell me what to wish for when I dream the day away
'Cause I know you're the one to teach me something
Like who I am and how to make my wayAnd when all these things become clear
I'll thank you for making all these things seem so clear, so clearTake me to your favorite places
Where no one knows me, they all know you
I'll hide my fears and stand right by your side
As the whole world looks up at youI hope that you stay shaven clean and somewhat sober
The bottle runs like water, but to me it's all the same
Stay with me and be a father
Teach me how to read and write my nameAnd when all these things become clear
I'll thank you for making all these things seem so clear, so clearJust when you think I am crazy, shy, and have no feelings
I'll look at you and slowly say your name
I'm thinking someday, maybe, I'll be just like you
And I'll never cry and I'll never be afraid
But not until all these things become clearAnd I thank you for making all these things seem so clear
Thank you for making all these things seem so clear, so clearNow I see, now I see
