

Never Fade Away

Jamestown Story

I've been walking railroads
I've been kicking stones
Trying to find the way back
Trying to find a home
Caught inside a dark spot
In the middle of the light
Maybe time is just forgot
To keep me in its sight
And left me behind

That city's like a fast stream
The blur of rushing lights
The way it bends around me
While I live between the lines
The feeling you're surrounded
The feeling you're alone,
The way the silence shouts it,
The way its shadows glow.

And with every other step I take,
I can feel another slip away.
I can see the colors bleed and fade,
like a picture cornered in its frame.

Livin' like a memory,
Trapped inside a room
You can leave me alone for centuries
But nothin' ever moves
And like a broken record
The song that plays the same
The notes are still familiar
But the way you hear them changed

And with every other step I take,
I can feel another slip away.
I can see the colors bleed and fade,
like a picture cornered in its frame.

Sometimes when I'm dreaming,
That's when I think I know

The stories I've been reading,
The stories still untold
Will give you happy endings
The hope that things can change
Will be forever mending

And never fade away
And never fade away
Never fade away
Never fade away
Never fade away

Never fade away
