Manuela

Globus

She curls up like a ball at the sound of thunder
The distant guns are closing fast
Her bodys hard as stone as her heart is tender
Forget your past Manuela

She finds the strength to heal in her darkest hour Confronting soldiers as she sleeps Her solitude is bold but she fights for comfort with the friends she keeps Manuela

Run from the light and emerge into day Manage those demons as you pull away Weakened by flight but empowered by will to live and breathe a new day

She cries out with a plea from those burning memories that took her little girl away standing shoulder deep in a town of rubble A life that trapped Manuela

Lost in a world of unending design We cannot find the path to travel on All I can offer this brave battered soul is a weathered hand to rest upon

The fires of Guernica are ablaze forever Behind those dark devoted eyes Your day of rest will come when the shells stop falling from angry skys Manuela I'll tend to your heart Manuela
Forget your past Manuela

Lyrics submitted by [({ ELLE)}].

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/