

You Won

Keith Urban

There was a world outside my door
I wasn't in touch with anymore
There was a way I used to feel
I knew what was and wasn't real You built a bridge, I tore it down
I felt safe on shaky ground
And I was a master of despair
Making believe, I didn't care I shouldn't be standin' here today
After all the crazy things I've done
I'm ready to fall and that's okay
I ran as far as I could run and you won Out of the world turned upside down
It took some time to come around
Out of the dream you made me whole
Yes you did, you lit a fire down in my soul I shouldn't be standin' here today
After all the crazy things I've done
I'm ready to fall and that's okay
I ran as far as I could run and you won I shouldn't be standin' here today
After all the crazy things I've done
I'm ready to fall and that's okay
I ran as far as I could run and you won And you won I thought I knew what I was doin'
I thought I was in control, I thought nobody could slow me down
But what did I know? I was just a kid, a motherless child
With no one to watch over me, I was runnin' wild Free of all responsibility 'til my life
And my love for myself caught up with me
Yeah, it caught up with me
And now I'm, yes I am so ready
Lord knows, I'm ready to fall

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>