

Midnight In The City Of Destruction

The Nightwatchman

There's an old green she at the end of an overgrown driveway
And years ago that shed collapsed and fell Years before that there was a withered dog chained up there

I saved im, maybe he saved me as well
Now he's gone and I think I've come undone
And it's midnight in the city of destruction There's music in the air and sweet abandon They're singin' cross the farm in the evening breeze

But there's someone in the rows who's unwanted
And now they've cut the faithful from the trees
And the bulldozers move in one by one
It's midnight in the city of destruction
I lost my guitar, my home, my hope and my good fortune

I lost my grandfather, two neighbors and my friend
I pray that God himself will come and drown the president

If the levees break again
Now we're standing at the crossroads waitin' for instruction

And it's midnight in the city of destruction
There's a secret prisoner somewhere south of 60
And in that secret prison there's a secret cell
And the prisoner's bound and burned, blinded and beaten

Still that secret prisoner keeps his secret well Turn out the light 'cause for one night that's enough, son

It's midnight in the city of destruction
