

Briquet

Lilly Wood & The Prick

They built the city halls, and streets,
That the people would walk in.
They made promises, and guilt
Was never far away.
Why is it that people believe?
And why is it that people pay?
Why is it that sugar is sweet?

Like a devil in disguise they say. I won't make fake promises to you he said
I won't lie all the time like mothers and fathers do
Won't make it all good just for you he said
Better learn to cope before
It gets too hard on you. Please let the music play.
Put a soundtrack to this reck.
I got a friend here who don't want to stay.
Get on a boat and sail away.
How did I get so old so fast?
Where did the brother and the sisters go?
I told you that the love wouldn't last,
Just like the rest, it will pass. I won't make fake promises to you he said
I won't lie all the time like mothers and fathers do
Won't make it all good just for you he said
Better learn to cope before
It gets too hard on you.

Songwriters

NILI BEN MEIR, BENJAMIN COTTO, PIERRE GUIMARD Published by

Lyrics © Warner/Chappell Music, Inc., WARNER CHAPPELL MUSIC FRANCE, CHOKE INDUSTRY Song
Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>