A Mirror Is Harder To Hold

Jon Foreman

You could stay a while longer we could stay up and talk about last summer we could go down to the water watch the sunset going underIt's not that I'm a stranger to lonely moments
I've had my share of thosePlease don't go Please don't leave me alone
A mirror's so much harder to holdI could try and point the finger but the glass points in my direction sure, you got your sharp edges but my wounds are from my own reflectionYou've got nothing I could ever hold against you
I got fatal flaws to call my ownPlease don't go, Please don't leave me alone
A mirror's so much harder to holdI met a man who's looking for perfection Said he never met a girl who's good enough his eyes are getting old like they'd love to love again Such a lonely man
Such a lonely manI see him in my reflection taking steps towards me these days So I hold you that much closer and pray we don't throw this awayIt's not that I'm a man who couldn't love you I know what these arms are forPlease don't go
Please don't leave me alone
A mirror is harder to hold
Please don't leave me cold
A mirror is harder to hold
