

Where Reality Has Me

Cannons and Clouds

[singing] Before we waste any more time, I must tell you that I love you. Yes, you know it's true, it's where reality has me. [upbeat rock music] The front door is where I walk through, reacquaint our gazes, kisses, and embraces shortly after. [upbeat rock music] You've said it, I've said it. We both think it's so tragic when idle hands and idle times can claim the lives of friends of mine. [upbeat rock music] Before we waste any more breath, I swear you're contagious. Your essence on these pages dances around me. [upbeat rock music] I sing alone from an opposite time zone, and Connecticut frost stings my cheeks. Feels like a swarm of killer bees, a starving. [upbeat rock music] You've said it, I've said it. We both know they're relentless. With mischief in their hearts, it's obvious. They are love songs. [upbeat rock music] Before we waste any more time, I must tell you that I love you. Yes, you know it's true, it's where reality has me. [upbeat rock music] The front door is where I walk through, reacquaint our gazes, kisses, and embraces shortly after. [upbeat rock music] Endless, these trails we drive to the west, but in due time, I'll be home. I'll climb in bed naked. We'll lay as one. [gentle guitar music] We'll lay as one. [gentle guitar music]

Lyrics Submitted by Joseph Stratton

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>