

Can Anybody Hear Me? (feat. Melody Schoenfeld)

Threering

Lifted up in this time, this place
Twisted in the dark embrace of now
But it's so normal to be here with you

I never wanted to let this get so far from me
My only regret
The final nail to drive it home
What I thought was forever...

All trace of reason swept aside
If only I had just taken the time
As stories go we could change our minds
Instead of leaving it all up to reason

Can anybody hear me?
I need someone to set me free
From all the things I've said and done
And that should be enough
To feel that all has left you
Like screaming in a vacuum for all these years
Lost along the way to save us

The cracks we fill with fear and doubt
Lost within, left without
Am I wrong
Believing nothing else matters right now

I can't escape the ghosts of the past
They're haunting me
And that's what's holding me back
If anyone should know, it's you
I won't be taken for granted

All trace of reason swept aside
If only I had just taken the time
As stories go we could change our minds
Instead of leaving it all up to reason

Can anybody hear me?
I need someone to set me free

From all the things I've said and done
And that should be enough
To feel that all has left you
Like screaming in a vacuum for all these years
Lost along the way to save us

Some days I get so numb inside
Can I fix the wreckage left behind?
In the shadows, misery my bride
Do I care enough to waste my time?
Time is what we lost along the way

Memories fade and masquerade as truth to everyone
Memories fade and masquerade as truth to everyone
They fade away

Can anybody hear me?
I need someone to set me free
From all the things I've said and done
And that should be enough
To feel that all has left you
Like screaming in a vacuum for all these years
Lost along the way to save us
