Good Man

Lou Doillon

Oh when the fear settles in
When absurdity grabs me by the hand
When my future's gone dim
When my thick's turned thin
Look awayAnd when my face turns spoilt
Just cause I won't do what I'm told
When I break like a child
'Cause I won't get it all
Walk awayAnd please, don't tell me you understand
'Cause what's a girl to do with such a good man
And please, don't tell me you understand
'Cause what's a girl to do with such a good manAnd when I say, I can't bear
Holding on to what will be taken away
When I'd rather let go
And pretend all is lost
Look awayAnd when my eyes sink deep
And I'd rather kill what I can't keep
When I beg for your pity
'Cause I want you as low as I
Look awayAnd please, don't tell me you understand
'Cause what's a girl to do with such a good man
And please, don't tell me you understand
'Cause what's a girl to do with such a good manAnd please, don't tell me you understand
'Cause what's a girl to do with such a good man
And please, don't tell me you understand
'Cause what's a girl to do with such a good man
'Cause what's a girl to do with such a good man
