Between You and Eye

The Color Morale

And now I know there's a place in my mind I go
Secluded, where my head is quick but my heart is slow
I bottle things up for too long waiting on someone to find me
I'm a message lost in a sinking seaWe all want to be found and held so close
So all that we know that is broken falls back togetherNo one is ever going to believe in yourself for you
And every false belief that you think is true was put inside of you
Imperfection and not accepting who you are, I'm guilty too
Your imperfections make you perfect to me
Now learn to just stay youEveryone you know is fighting a battle of their own
Now do unto yourself what your neighbors never show
What a world we live in we're falling for everything and anyone but usYou just want somebody to love the hell out of you
But you will never find that kind of love in someone before yourselfWe all want to be found and held so close
So all that we know that is broken falls back togetherNo one is ever going to believe in yourself for you
And every false belief that you think is true was put inside of you
Imperfection and not accepting who you are, I'm guilty too
Your imperfections make you perfect to me
Now learn to just stay youI understand you more than you think I do
Stop looking up to me start looking up to you
Imperfection and not accepting who you are, I'm guilty too
Will you spend another day believing what the world wants you to?No one is ever going to believe in yourself for you
And every false belief that you think is true was put inside of you
Imperfection and not accepting who you are, I'm guilty too
Your imperfections make you perfect to me
Now learn to just stay you
Learn to just stay you
