I Choose Him

April Meservy

Someday I will see my saviours face again,
I know that he will come for me,
And in that day I want to look at him with confidence,
That I've become who I promised I would be,

I know the path that leads in that direction.
Ive been given everything I need.
He offers me his mercy and protection,
But he's left the decision up to me.

I choose truth
I choose light
I'll have the faith to stand alone for what is right
I will live my life each day
So the keeper of the gate can let me in
I choose him

I can tell the difference between black and white
I know where to draw that line
But most of my decisions seem much harder,
And they make all the difference in time.

Im grateful that my farther knows me better
That I could ever know myself
Though I dont have all the awnsers to my questions
I never have to walk with his help

I choose truth
I choose light
Ill have the faith to stand alone for what is right
I will live my life each day
So the keeper of the gate can let me in
I choose him

When his spirit reassures me that a choice i made is right
I ask him for the faith to walk beyond the light
Then i honour my commitment in the tiniest of things
There is nothing that compares with the peace those choices bring

I choose truth

I choose light
Ill have the faith to stand alone for what is right
I will live my life each day
So the keeper of the gate can let me in
I choose him

Only him
Everyday
I choose him
