

Never Coming Back

Fracus

 Mom and dad won't you listen to me
 Listen to me 'cause what I'm thinkin' is
 Cool the quiet little look in your eye
 The bigger surprise is I'm doing fine here
 While I zip my jacket up when it rains
 I brush my teeth like two times a day
 And though it seems so stupid to say
 I'm really okay, I'm workin' hard on everything, yeah
 I can't let you come in
 It's just too confusing
 I can't let you come in
 It's just too confusing
 Either you tell the truth and leave here
 Or I am never coming back
 Yeah, when there's something simple to say
 You shrug it away, I watch you shrug it away
 Cool the quiet little look in your eye
 The bigger surprise is I'm doing fine
 While I zip my jacket up when it rains
 I brush my teeth like two times a day
 And when it all falls down on my head
 And I'm down on my head, I'm belly laughing again
 I can't let you come in
 It's just too confusing
 I can't let you come in
 It's just too confusing
 And again you tell the truth and leave here
 Or I am never coming back

 No, well, I don't care what you might think
 You just don't mean that much to me well, I'm awake, the night is loud and mom is quickly running out
 But I don't care what you might think
 You just don't mean that much to me
 You just don't mean that much to me, no
 Cool the quiet little look in your eye
 Do you remember much that day
 When mother was gone but mother was her name?
 Mother was her name

I can't let you come in
It's just too confusing
I can't let you come in
It's just too confusing
Either you tell the truth and leave here
Or I am never coming back
 Never, never
 Never coming back
 I am never coming back
Or I am never coming back
 Never coming back
 Never coming back
