

Time Will Come

Kris Allen

staring back into her eyes the mother to my only son and hear the distant trains roll by feeling like I missed another one She asked me if I lost my mind cause she can read me like a book I said if only days could happen twice Maybe I would know where to look Lately I've been making friends with the doubts in my head
Hanging on every word that they've said
I, I'm such a long way from where I, long way from where I wanna be
I, I'm such a long way from where I, long way
from where I wanna be
But I keep on moving on Cause I know my time will come Look around and all I see Is everyone else marching along Well I've been blaming gravity for keeping me from where I belong Lately I've been making peace with the writings on the wall Right now even those don't make sense at all
I, I'm such a long way from where I, long way
from where I wanna be
I, I'm such a long way from where I, long way
from where I wanna be
But I keep on moving on Cause I know my time will come I know my time will come
Lately I've been making friends with the doubts in my head
Hanging on every word that they've said
I, I'm such a long way from where I, long way
from where I wanna be
I, I'm such a long way from where I, long way
from where I wanna be
But I keep on moving on
I keep on moving on
I keep on moving on
Cause I know my time will come Yeah I know my time will come
So I keep moving on

Cause I know my time will come
So I keep moving on
Cause I know my time will come
So I keep moving on
Cause I know my time will come
So I keep moving on
Cause I know my time will come

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>