

Plastic Idols

Job for a Cowboy

In a continuous rehashed rhythm, the masses gawk toward their simulated
Idols

Frothing at the lips with shuddering jaws as the public swells with Ignorance and vacant delight.

Fixated on the trivial speculation and day to day existence of plastic
Gods

Dense enlightenment circulates throughout every form of broadcasting
Bringing forth a suspending shroud over the actuality of our decomposing
Populace

Smothering the choking truth and realism. Celebrity praise over political Awareness

We are observed as human cattle: blind, deaf and neglected from government
Transparency
