Guadalupe

Tom Russell

There are ghosts out in the rain tonight High up in those ancient trees and I have given up without a fight Another blind fool on his kneesAnd all the gods that I'd abandoned Begin to speak in simple tongue And suddenly I've come to know There are no roads left to runNow it's the hour of dogs a-barking That's what the old ones used to say It's first light or it's sundown Before the children cease their playWhen the mountains glow like mission wine And turn grey like a Spanish roan Ten thousand eyes will stop to worship Then turn away and head for homeChorus She is reaching out her arms tonight and, Lord, my poverty is real I pray roses shall rain down again from Guadalupe on her hillAnd who am I to doubt these mysteries Cured in centuries of blood and candle smoke I am the least of all your children here But I am most in need of hopeShe appeared to Juan Diego She left her image on his cape Five hundred years of sorrow Cannot destroy their deepest faithSo here am I your ragged disbeliever Old doubting Thomas drowns in tears As I watch your church sink through the earth Like a heart worn down through fearChorus
