

Defender

Markku Mattila

They are marching toward us
That group of faceless soldiers
They are moving like robots of the bad dream
Blue haze emerges to the air
Our data lines are now disconnected
Blue haze gets stronger in the air We are the generation of future
We are the generation of future
Our destiny is to defend this world They raise their weapons against us
That group of faceless soldiers
Our fields are burning in the flames of war
Families are in danger, we must fight now We are the generation of future
We are the generation of future
Our destiny is to defend this world
