

Goodnight Gravity

Falling Up

Static night, I'll be leaving soon
It won't be long, no, it won't be long
'Cause I'm wearing out under nowhere's moon
It won't be long, no, it won't be long Until I see the sun splash up the night sky
They're calling out to turn the planet new So goodnight gravity, it has kept me down
But I always get just one more try
I always get just one more try So goodnight gravity, it has kept me down
But I always get just one more try
I always get just one more try Space between, there is such divide
It won't be long, no, it won't be long
'Cause honestly, there's a storm inside
It won't be long, no, it won't be long Until I see the sun splash up the night sky
They're calling out to turn the planet new So goodnight gravity, it has kept me down
But I always get just one more try
I always get just one more try So goodnight gravity, it has kept me down
But I always get just one more try
I always get just one more try And in the morning, I will find my heart
I will find my heart
And in the morning, I will find my heart
I will find my heart So goodnight gravity, it has kept me down
But I always get just one more try
I always get just one more try So goodnight gravity, it has kept me down
But I always get just one more try
I always get just one more try
