

Welcome Home, Luc Robitaille

Mando Diao

Smile, you're on TV again
You must put up a happy face
Your mother told you to on Christmas day
Oh, you must do what they say Now you're thinking of happy thoughts
Like no one did you harm and it was all 1234
Life is so brilliant but why? I'm not so sure You remember the day
You remember the package
Where he used to spend his years
And now you found him Or was it him that found you?
It feels like you already knew
Life is sweet when he is back so I just say Welcome home. Luc Robitaille
There's so much that you missed, I'm old
But I need you as much as yesterday
Oh, Mr. Robitaille, stay, I threw the others away This must be the worst thing I've done
I don't know even why I wrote this song
There's so much more to him than that paper card Look at him crossing the line
Oh, it's so hard to define the moves inside my head
It's all just blood, blood, blood, [Incomprehensible] sweat, sweat
I have no fears Oh, now it seems so clear
Everything falls into place
This mathematic maze and now you found me Or was it me that found you?
It feels like you already knew
Life is sweet when he's back so I just say Welcome home. Luc Robitaille
There's so much that you missed, I'm old
But I need you as much as yesterday
Oh, Mr. Robitaille, stay, I threw the others away
I threw the others away Smile, you're on TV again
You must put up a happy face
Your mother told you to And now you see you found him
Or was it him that found you?
It feels like you already knew
Life is sweet when he's back so I just say Welcome home. Luc Robitaille
There's so much that you missed
I'm old but I need you as much as yesterday
Mr. Robitaille, stay, I threw the others away Oh, I threw the others away
Oh, I threw the others away
Oh, I threw the others away
Oh, I threw the others away I threw the others away
I threw the others away

Oh, I threw the others away

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>