Terminal

Globus

Goodbye earth, hello moon.
Fancy meeting you so soon.
I'm taking leave, taking flight.
Leave the universe in blight.

Goodbye sun, hello void.
Strap me to this asteroid.
Shoot me far, throw me deep.
Let me find the golden sleep.

One million black holes in my head.
Swiss cheese brain, those cells dead.
No carbon matter goes to waste.
I'll dissipate in endless space.

Lost my hair, shed my skin.
Look just like a skeleton.
Numb to pain, no appetite.
Nothing ever felt so right.

Close my eyes, drift away.
Past the walls across the bay.
I'll take some friends, hurl them ahead.
This world could use the empty beds.

Lyrics submitted by [({ ELLE)}].

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/