

Midnight Rain

Wide Mouth Mason

Three men jump off an overpass
One hits rock and the other glass
Last one grabs a rail and calls the other two fools
Tell me now which one are you At the last out post of the midnight rain
A man relieves his past with his shadow again
Prays a toast to his bride and pours a long tall suicide
Would you do the same if it was you But everything is turning out, turning out
And everything is coming round, coming round
The sun will shine on solid ground
Tomorrow when it comes out Everything is turning out, turning out
And everything is coming round, coming round
The things that hurt you set you free
Yes come home to me
