Love You Once Made

Valerie June

You can leave knowing
You did all you could
You could have said ten thousand words
Done all the things that you shouldBut time's hands turn
To point straight your way
A memory faded to dust
Of a love you once madeThere were the nights of the midnight ramble
The roll and tumble, the toss and gamble
There were suppers on the table
And electric's paid and rent was stableWe'd watch the sunsets on the shoreline
Walk hand in hand towards the star shine
Darlin' you had raise the windows, feel the rain dance
So sound and settled, deep in romanceSo you can leave knowing
You did all you could
You could have said ten thousand words
Done all the things that you shouldTime's hands turn
To point straight your way
A memory faded to dust
Of a love you once madeLove you once, love you once made
Love you once, love you once made
Love you once, love you once made
Love you once, love you once madeLeave knowing
You did all you could
You could have said ten thousand words
Done all the things that you shouldTime's hands turn
To point straight your way
A memory faded to dust
Of a love you once madeLove you once, love you once made
Love you once, love you once made
Love you once, love you once made
Love you once, love you once made
