

Sound of Awakening

WALK THE MOON

The sound of awakening
The virgin yawn of folded wings
That cracks the crust of the cocoon
The breaking of first light inside the womb
Do you feel my heartbeat quickening
In between the baited breaths before the turning of the page
The sense that everything's about to change
Kicking and screaming, you can't make me leave this place
Cradled in the arms of darkness, I am safe
Until you pulled me into life, how could I know that I'd been blind?
It was love at first sight
When I opened my new eyes
And saw your face
The sound of awakening
The exoskeleton beckoning
Do you feel the park gates opening
To the sound of awakening?
As whispers in the heart disclose the rumors of the truth
When the mind has all but hidden it from view
The surface trembles as the core begins to heat
And you are on the crust, the turning earth beneath your feet
Questioning if time has ever moved in a straight line
When you hear the aches of past life lovers
As you pass by one another in the street
It's the sound of awakening
A psychotropical symphony
All the voices washing over me
The distance
And the difference
Between us
Is just illusion
The distance
And the difference
Between us
Is just illusion
It's all a dream
It's always been a dream
Yes it's all one magnificent dream
And that's all it's ever been
Yes it's all a dream
It's always been a dream
Yes it's all a dream
My love for you

Will echo in
EternityThe distance
And the difference
Between us
Is just illusion
The distance
And the difference
Between us
Is just illusionThe distance
And the difference
Between us
Is just illusion
The distance
And the difference
Between us
Is just illusionThe distance
And the difference
Between us
Is just illusion (Illusion)
The distance
And the difference
Between us
Is just illusion

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnllyrics.com/>