Miles Apart

Sonic Syndicate

An honest crescendo
And by your words that rise like stars
That moment, I knew
That I would bind myself to youFor calling, the demons
They can't wait to deny the truth
But they'll have to wait
I'm anxious 'cause right now I am loving youThere is nothing that they can do
To stop me needing and yearning you
Even if we're a million miles apart
We're still joined right at the heartHeartYour memory, it warms my soul
So when I die, I won't be cold
Put here on earth, I got something to prove
And why love a lie if I got nothing to loseSo I take my chance and I make my move
I fought my evils, scaled the wall
And backed the right horse, broke the rules
I'm risking everything I've got
Just to get a shot with youThere is nothing that they can do
To stop me needing and yearning you
Even if we're a million miles apart
We're still joined right at the heartThere is nothing that they can do
To stop me needing and yearning you
Even if we're a million miles apart
We're still joined right at the heartHeartI died inside when you were taken
And then I died some more
The daylight hurts my eyes'Cause I'm a stranger to the sun
Some parts of me are gone forever
But the rest of me lives onThere is nothing that they can do
To stop me needing and yearning you
Even if we're a million miles apart
We're still joined right at the heartThere is nothing that they can do
To stop me needing and yearning you
Even if we're a million miles apart
We're still joined right at the heartHeart, heart
Heart, heart
Heart, heart
